General customs procedures (non-diplomats)			<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Once the shipment is at destination, your local agent will prepare a file to be submitted to Customs. Customs will then process the request (2-3 days) and send an inspector along with the local agent Customs broker at the port for a container verification. At that point, the consignee or his representative will be asked to come to the port to assist with verification. Container will be unsealed in presence of the local agent Customs broker and the Customs inspector. All boxes will first be opened, inspected, and then transferred to another container (a full day). The Customs inspector will issue his report and a Customs bill will be generated (3 to 4 weeks). During this time, demurrages, detention, and storage fees may apply if the franchise period is exceeded. It is recommended to request for extension of shipping line franchise time. Once customs bill available it will be sent to
